Step back into the gold rush era in Clunes, with streetscapes straight out of a colonial history book. This picturesque and laid-back town was once the fifth largest in the State. As one of the original and most intact gold towns in Australia, you’ll feel like you’re entering a bygone era when you visit Clunes.

Victoria’s history changed dramatically in 1851 when the first gold discovered in Victoria was found here and the great gold rush was on, with miners flocking in from right around the globe.

That gold history is still clearly evident, as Clunes has an outstanding collection of well-preserved 19th century architecture. The main street is still wide enough to turn a horse and wagon.

Clunes is now forging a future based on a new sort of gold – books – and the town’s intact heritage streetscape provides the perfect back drop to a weekend of browsing through the town. Each May Clunes hosts the popular Booktown Festival and has attained recognition as an International Booktown – the only town in Australia to have this status.
Clunes Creek Walk

Starting from the Visitor Information Centre, this trail takes you through the historic streetscape of Clunes which is lined with 19th century buildings. Follow the creek past Esmond Park and along the shady banks of the waterway. Spend some time visiting the shops on Fraser Street and visit the Museum at The Warehouse – Clunes to further immerse yourself in the history of this town.

Creswick was built on the proceeds of rich gold deposits which were discovered in the 1850s. Today you can explore this historic township which includes one of the country’s most impressive collections of heritage architecture, with buildings that owe their grandeur to the boom times of gold.

Adding to Creswick’s history, this town is Australia’s birthplace of reforestation. John La Gerche began re-planting forest areas ravaged by mining activity in 1882. Today, much of La Gerche’s work survives around Creswick including magnificent plantings lining local streets.

Explore the inspiration and birthplace of noted artist Norman Lindsay and other Lindsay family members. Pick up the Creswick of the Lindsays Arts Trail guide from the Creswick Visitor Information Centre to find out more about their contribution to the area.

There is a range of adventurous mountain biking trails surrounding Creswick. For more information on these, please collect a Creswick Walking and Cycling Map from the Creswick Visitor Information Centre.

Nestled at the top of the Great Dividing Range mid-way between Woodend and Daylesford, approximately one hour from Melbourne, Trentham is a very special township and the perfect base to explore the many attractions of these areas. It’s a small town that certainly packs a punch – offering experiences that excite, soothe, relax and rejuvenate.

Like most of the towns and villages throughout Central Victoria, Trentham owes its foundation and ongoing appeal to the discovery of gold. The township and area has moved beyond this to take advantage of its natural attractions and become a gateway to the Wombat Forest.

Trentham is a lovely country village filled with character, interesting stores, cute cottages, gorgeous gardens and superb accommodation. Don’t forget to try some of the area’s delicious food and wine when passing through.

Whilst in Trentham take some time to visit Trentham Falls – the longest single drop waterfall in Victoria, plunging some 32 metres over basalt columns. Trentham Falls was formed approximately five million years ago from molten lava rapidly cooling as it flowed along the old Coliban River valley.
